Taylor's & Company, Inc. proudly markets a finely crafted firearms product produced to famous historical designs. These firearms are manufactured using precise modern machinery and high quality modern materials. They are faithful reproductions of firearms originally designed in the nineteenth century; however, in choosing to own or use historical firearms the user has to recognize that there have been significant advances in firearms design and safety in the hundred years or more since these firearms were designed. Taylors markets these guns not as state of the art firearms, but as historically significant firearms for the collector. It is vital that the user be familiar with his firearm and possible safety risks that may be present in the design. Most significantly, the user should realize that the designs of safeties – or even the presence of adequate safeties – vary significantly on historical designs and do not offer the protection against accidental discharge that modern firearms safeties achieve. Similarly, any firearm that is designed to be fired using black powder (or Pyrodex) has basic risks not found in modern cartridge firearms. Black powder is a dangerous explosive and has to be used and handled with extreme caution. The slightest miscalculation or carelessness with black powder firearms can result in serious injuries to the user.

Taylor's & Company have selected only the finest reproductions of firearms for our line. We strive to insure the quality of firearms which you receive from us by checking each and every firearm before the product is shipped to your location and using extra packaging to insure you are receiving a non-damaged firearm. Please inspect your shipment once received for serial number accuracy and quality; any discrepancy or quality issues must be reported to us immediately so damage claims may be processed timely. Taylor's & Company will only accept reports of damage up to 5 days after receipt of shipment.

PARTS: Taylor's & Company does offer a complete parts book with schematics for $10.00 each, including freight. We strive to carry all internal parts and some exterior parts for our products. Once your order is confirmed an expected delivery date will be estimated. We recommend that parts are ordered online to avoid any error when placing the order and to confirm you are ordering the correct item (www.taylorsfirearms.com).

SPECIAL ORDERS: Taylors and Company does accept orders for merchandise which is not carried in our current line; however a 50% non-refundable deposit is required. PRODUCT GUARANTEE: Taylors and Company offers a manufacturers warranty on our products. The warranty is handled in the following manner:

- 2) All returned products must be shipped at customer's expense.
- 3) Taylors and Company will pay the return freight after the repair is completed if the repair is determined to be a warranty situation. The customer will be responsible for the return freight if the warranty has been voided or we determine the repair is not under warranty. Any firearm which has been altered in any manner will void the warranty.
- 4) It is under Taylors and Company's discretion whether the product will be repaired, replaced, or returned. Any expenses to re-register a replacement firearm is at the individual's expense.
- 5) Taylors and Company will not reimburse repair expenses for gunsmiths not authorized by Taylor's & Co., Inc. All repairs are to be handled by Taylors and Company.
- 6) The use of any ammunition other than factory ammunition will void the warranty.

If you have received your product and are dissatisfied, you can return the item. The item must be received in the original, non-fired condition and a 15% restocking fee will apply. You are responsible for all shipping charges and a return authorization number is required.

SHIPMENTS: Taylors and Company strives to handle all shipments without error on our part. If an error is determined to have been caused by Taylors and Company we will be responsible for making the correction at our expense. However, if the error is determined to be a customer error the return freight will be at your expense. If you have a change of address or account information please remind our sales staff of this information when ordering.
